

CHIEF ENGINEER

Founded in 1953 as Alberta Engineering Limited, this family-owned company in Wetaskiwin distributed agricultural equipment to customers across Canada and the United States. Today, the company employs over 100 staff of which over one-third hold journeyman trade tickets and another 12% are enrolled in apprenticeship programs. Company sales have more than doubled in the last 5 years and 2009-10 is expected to be another strong year. Their vertical processors are sold all over the world through well established dealer networks. The reputation of Supreme International Limited is for the highest quality product and servicing of any company in the marketplace. Innovation and a state of the art manufacturing plant incorporating Lean management techniques are consistently raising the bar regarding quality products and innovative ideas. Expansion into the United States in 2008 has solidified the company as a leader in the industry.

Reporting to the President, the Chief Engineer is responsible for reviewing the entire product line and leading the development of design solutions to improve product performance, quality, cost, safety and manufacturability. This position will work with the Production Manager and the Technical Team to bring innovative processes and designs to enhance the performance of company.
