 - Question: Should companies be doing air quality testing on a regular basis? WCB answer: Annual testing should be done when exposure or hazard is apparent. When testing air quality the worst possible scenario should be used. (closed doors etc)
 - AMC to look at possibly making up a chemical listing of the 310-10 companies with stated TLVs

A company called 911 for a possible heart attack and 911 did not answer so employee hung up phone. 911 called back to main office as this was the number that was on their display. Office was not aware of 911 issue. When calling 911 please make sure that employee are trained in the requirements when calling 911.
